

CALL FOR PAPERS

SPECIAL ISSUE ON ELDERLY NUTRITION

The Family Economics and Nutrition Review is calling for manuscripts
for a special issue on the Elderly.

This issue will highlight nutrition for the elderly but will also emphasize physiological, socio-economical, familial, psychological, environmental, educational, and other factors that influence the nutritional status of older Americans. Authors are invited to submit papers on basic or applied research, innovative research approaches, methods, education programs, and economic issues that focus on improving nutritional health or policy issues for older Americans. Research articles and research briefs will be considered.

Original manuscripts must be postmarked by Monday, April 1, 2002.

*When submitting articles, see guidelines for authors on the CNPP Web site:
